Lynn Williamson New President Of Fraternity

Lynn Williamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Williamson, Route 4, has recently been elected president of the University of Kentucky Chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity. Having served as vice president of the local chapter, Lynn succeeds Dave Kirk of Owensboro.

Lynn, a junior pre-law major, is a graduate of Fulton High School where he was salutatorian of the 1963 class.

The Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity, founded in 1930, is one of the

Jo's Notebook

There's a story at the bottom of this page today, recounting the early history of Fulton, wherein I do some serious pondering as to why the city has not grown in population at all in more than 52 years. Surely nobody can accuse this modern day generation of a lack of interest in the community, because almost, nearly everybody who cares about these twin cities works beyond the call of duty for civic development, industry and modernization.

On Wednesday I came to a curbstone conclusion that the main reason there are no fabulously wealthy families and businesses around these parts is because the majority of the people are too busy trying to make life more pleasant for the less fortunate residents of this community. One thing is for sure, if anybody had a lot of money, they wouldn't keep it very long, for the spirit of Christmas prevails around here 365 days a year.

This town has heart... a great big, warm, soft and generous heart that responds to every worthwhile appeal ever made known to the people. It matters not the creed or color, if anybody needs help, financial and moral, there are more hands extended than you can reach.

Take a look at this week's paper. The 53 jam-packed gift boxes to servicemen in Viet Nam have by now reached their destination. A veteran, Charles Dixon, had but to drop a word here and there about the project and away it went, as the pictures taken by South Fulton City Manager Henry Dunn indicate in this week's issue. People in all walks of life, pitched in and helped, and as far as we know not one dime was actually solicited.

Then there's the wonderful, heart-warming incident of eight-year old Jimmy Lawson, whose hospital bills have soared into the thousands as a result of several brain operations. Mrs. Ned Waldrop made the situation known by just a few remarks and without asking a living soul, some $1300 has been generously donated to the Lawson fund. A coffee was held Wednesday and more than $300 was collected to say nothing of all the goodies that were cooked up to be sold.

You rarely hear of Fulton falling far behind in any annual drive for Scouts, Red Cross, Cancer, Heart, March of Dimes, Elks, bands, sports equipment and the like. It's simply uncanny. The spirit of generosity is contagious. I know of a private solicitation, absolutely voluntary, now in progress, to help

Success Comes To Fulton Band, So Does Problem Of More Instruments, Uniforms

Fulton High School's Band is having growing pains. Having "grown" to a prize-winning contender, it is also growing in popularity, with twelve new members signing up, bringing the "population" to fifty-three members.

The population growth necessitates an increase in the number of uniforms needed for the new band members, to say nothing of the fact that the larger population has created a necessity for an increase in the number of band instruments.

Indeed, the "growing explosion" in the Fulton High School Band is showing healthy signs in every department but the treasury.

There the situation is one of financial shrinkage, which poses a problem serious enough to "stunt" the growth of the promising future of some hard-working and talented young people.

A letter from Mrs. Glynn Bushak, president of the Band Parents best portrays the problem now facing the local band. It is printed for your consideration and action.

Here it is:

Dear Editor:
The Fulton Band Parents Club met Monday night at the band room.

Mrs. R. E. Hyland was elected secretary following the resignation of Billy Gilbert.

It was reported that five used small instruments had been purchased at a cost of $317.00.

The band will go to Union City's Christmas Parade on December 2nd and the pop concert will be held on February 5, 1966.

Band director Mandel Brown stated that there are twelve new members in the High School band, bringing the total to 53 and there are 6 new members in the sixth grade band. There is a possibility of more new members in the near future.

Although everyone is pleased to have the band grow, it is causing some problems. As the size increases more large instruments are needed as more bass sounds will be required when the band performs in competition. Even in the past the lack of these sounds has brought criticism from judges. The cost of the needed instruments is approximately $2500.00. At the present, there is only

Civil Defense 200-Bed Emergency Hospital Arrives At Water Valley

A 200-bed mobile emergency disaster field hospital arrived Wednesday at Water Valley, Kentucky and has been stored at the Water Valley Community center.

The unit, complete with supplies, oxygen, electrical generating equipment for lighting and other necessities, is for emergency use anywhere in this area, supervising officials, stressed. If put to use in this area, it would probably be staffed with Fulton doctors. The following pictures were made Wednesday by a News photographer as the hospital equipment was being unloaded and stored under supervision of the Mayfield-Graves County Civil Defense Unit, under whose care it will be maintained in a constant state of readiness.

TONS AND TONS OF SUPPLIES: Byron Simpson (left), training officer of the Health Dept mobilization office, Frankfort, points out one of the boxes of packaged emergency supplies to Jack Erwin, civil defense director of the Mayfield-Graves County civil defense unit and head of the CD rescue squad, as Carlene Boyd, Secretary of the Mayfield-Graves County CD unit, looks on.

Fifty-Two Year Old Newspaper, Predicting Fulton's Growth To City Of 25,000, Finds Population Same Now As In 1913

(First in a Series)
By Jo Westpheling

More than a half century ago, a local editor, whose flowery rhetoric was matched only by the evident pride he had for his home-town of Fulton, published a "sweet sixteen anniversary edition" of his newspaper.

Mrs. Helen McGee, the former Helen Bennett, whose family was prominently identified with the early growth and development of this area, brought a copy of the paper into the News office and since then we've lived in what Editor Mott Ayres himself might have called "an illustrious era of our community's prosperity, immortalizing the useful service and splendid effort of our pioneer citizens."

Ayres, bannered his special edition with "Opportunities in Fulton, 'The Future Great,' Unexcelled," but he failed to put the date of the newspaper anywhere in the edition. We estimated the time of the publication as April, 1913, for certain financial affairs of the City of Fulton were brought up to that date.

To a fellow-editor, the edition is a classic contribution to local history, for it chronicles not only the vital statistics of an era, but by enuendo gives character analyses of those staunch individuals, whose pioneering spirits might be shattered if they knew that "the future great" city they predicted still has a population of 7000 inhabitants, fifty-two and one half years after the prediction of greatness.

Ayres described Fulton as "the city of brightest promise," predicting "a future of still greater prosperity when she shall approximate the 25,000 mark in population; when the air castles of yesterday become the realities of no distant day."

Many old time residents who have flipped through the pages of the brown and brittle edition with us have reminisced of the past history as they recalled the challenging spirit of first one pioneer resident and then another.

The newspaper has far more interest to a newcomer of twenty years, than it has to the descendants of those first early business and professional men, for it gives the newcomer an opportunity to ponder if a new generation lacks the courage needed for success and prosperity, or whether the early settlers had more challenging opportunities for growth.

In the weeks to come we shall publish various articles from the "sweet sixteen edition" with the hope that we may capture some of the challenges laid down by our forebears and fulfill their prediction of a "great city of 25,000 souls."

Here's the first early history of Fulton as recorded by Mott Ayres: Fulton, "The Future Great," the metropolis of Fulton County and the city of brightest promise, is situated at the crossing of the Illinois Central main line and the Louisville and Memphis branch of the same system, in the midst of as fertile a region as the United States can boast with all the added charm of a delightful and salubrious climate and inhabited by a peace loving, law abiding people, largely descendants of the pioneer builders who laid the foundations for the proud Commonwealth of Kentucky, and her fair sister state, Tennessee. The many beautiful homes, stately public edifices, modern business houses, well constructed and equipped mills and factories attest the progress and enterprise of the citizens. With a population of more than 7,000 souls, Fulton, substantially builded, looks forward with confidence to a future of still greater prosperity when she shall have approximated the 25,000 mark in population; when the air castles of yesterday become the golden realities of some no distant day. Commandingly situated to attract the eye of the factory owner in search of a site where labor troubles never interrupt the wheels of industry, nor obnoxious laws exist to hinder the forward march of progress, Fulton, with becoming pride, boasts of her institutions, the high character of her people, the enterprise and prosperity evident on every hand and extends an invitation to every man desiring an ideal location for the making of a home, where moral influences are such as to promote the proper rearing of children into useful and upright citizens. There exists in the community that spirit of civic pride and moral atmosphere necessary to the well being of a people.

In 1850 the land upon which Fulton now stands was owned by B. F. Carr, Dr. G. W. Paschall and others. The decade immediately preceding the Civil War saw the country waking up to the need of railroads and other great internal improvements. This section was not the exception, for it was between the years 1850 and the outbreak of the greatest struggle of modern times that the survey was made and the railroad built from Louisville to this point. When the road was first built, and for years afterwards, it was known as the Paducah & Elizabethtown R. R. (Continued on Page Three)

THE PACKAGES WERE WRAPPED BY PEOPLE WHO CARED in hopes that the boys in Viet Nam would know that the people at home were wishing them a Merry Christmas. At the Chamber of Commerce office last week Mayor of South Fulton Rex Ruddle, Bobby Rhodes and Mrs. Sonny Puckett put the gifts in the boxes so that they would be safely delivered at their destination in Saigon. ## Thanksgiving Reminds Us That We Must Stop Senseless Accidents That Take Many Lives

We in the United States of America have much for which to be thankful.

We are free to worship when, where and whom we please in any manner we so choose.

We are free to praise those around us, or to criticize if we deem it proper.

We are free to come and go as we please across this beautiful land of ours—and as we travel from the plains to the mountains, the sea to the desert, we can make friends with whomever we like.

From the rich bounty of America we have enough food to eat, land on which to live, and opportunities which will keep each of us as busy as he, or she, chooses.

America is a healthy and happy land whose people have the opportunity, as have had no people before, to live rich, full lives, pursuing their individual dreams through education and training.

The Commonwealth of Kentucky is doubly blest among the states of this great nation—for she has a beauty unsurpassed by mountain or plain plus the agricultural and industrial growth to provide for her residents.

We must ensure that each and every Kentuckian has the chance to utilize the vast opportunities of his state. We must put an end to the greatest killer in the Commonwealth!

This is the motor vehicle accident, which last Thanksgiving claimed the lives of 11 persons. There were 911 traffic fatalities during 1964, a record which we swore never to surpass.

And yet, thus far this year, we have killed more persons in senseless accidents than we did in the same period of time in 1964.

There is an answer! We must drive safely, sanely, as if there were a loved one in the approaching automobile.

Let's live to enjoy the bounty and beauty of Kentucky. Make this a happy Thanksgiving!

Turning Back The Clock

November 23, 1945

Plans have been completed for the opening of the new Fulton Bank here next Tuesday, according to James F. Duncan, active vice-president and cashier of the new banking institution here. Mr. Duncan came here from the American National Bank in Nashville. Personnel will include Miss Phyllis Ringo, teller, and Miss Nell Nelson, bookkeeper. Officers are Ira W. Little, chairman of the board; Smith Atkins, president; James Duncan, vice-president and cashier; Maxwell McDade, Frank Beadles, R. H. White and Gilson Latta, members of the board.

Six Kentucky and two Tennessee cities will enter clubs in the new Kitty League, which was disbanded June 19, 1942, for the duration of the war and reorganized last Sunday at Layfield. They are: Fulton, Mayfield, Union City, Bowling Green, Owensboro, Hopkinsville, Clarksville and Madisonville.

Community Thanksgiving services were conducted yesterday at the First Methodist Church. The sermon was by Aaron C. Bennett.

Rev. Walter E. Mischke, who has served here for two years, was re-appointed pastor of the First Methodist Church in Fulton, appointments being made last Sunday.

Miss Eloise King entertained at her home south of town Monday night with a rook party. Guests were: Buel and Helen Carlisle, Sarah Weaks and Marvin Deny of Indiana. Cold drinks and cookies were served.

From Dukedom: Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Webb have returned here from St. Louis to make their home. Mr. Webb has re-enlisted in the Navy and will leave December 10.

From Fulton, Route 3: Chester Bennett has had another birthday. He is one year older and much heavier than last year at this time, but avoids and less energy go with age. At his party were Miss Betty Hodges of Union City, Mrs. Augusta Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Bennett and Mr. and Mrs. Hester Bennett.

From Fulton, Route 5: Mr. and Mrs. Marion Milam left Saturday for Blacksburg, Va., where he is employed. Marion is home from the Army with his honorable discharge.

Gunn D. Finch spent much of the last three weeks on his farm, spreading lime and remodeling his house. The foundation of cinder blocks is laid and the building is now ready for interior work.

From Crutchfield: Mrs. Etta Wade sold her home here to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Madden on Tuesday. She will move this week to her son's farm near Fulton. J. W. Niles has purchased the lot with the coop factory from L. A. Watkins and will build a house some time later.

get the agonies of long-ago summers, when just about everybody had "agers."

Good old quinine is still here, of course; but most people, especially old people, buy it to relieve cramps in the legs.

My druggist friends have never known anybody who had smallpox, even though they are old enough to have a grown daughter who is now a senior pharmacy student.

And neither of them can recall when anyone of their acquaintances had typhoid.

Maybe the liking to complain on the part of so many people will be satisfied with colored aspirin tablets, with placebos, and other relatively harmless medicines; let us hope that many other diseases will some day be as unremembered as are chills and fevers and smallpox and typhoid.

LET'S LOOK IT OVER

By Gov. Edward T. Breathitt

FRANKFORT—

If you go camping and fishing in the Land Between the Lakes area of Western Kentucky, like I did last week, I believe you will come away more convinced than ever, like I was, that Kentucky should do all it can to conserve and develop its natural resources.

One of these resources is water, which next to air is the element most necessary for human survival, and nowhere in the inland United States can one find two finer man-made bodies of water than Kentucky and Barkley lakes, with their 3,280 miles of shoreline.

The week before I went on this camping trip, I attended a meeting in St. Louis of the National Governors' Conference Committee on Natural Resources, of which I am chairman.

Partly as a result of this meeting, we will introduce at the 1966 session of the General Assembly in January an interstate strip-mining compact. This compact will be part of a natural resources package containing bills not only to tighten Kentucky's control of strip mining, but also its control of air pollution and water pollution.

The week before the St. Louis meeting, we held a Kentucky Governor's Conference on Water Resources Development. I told the group at Frankfort that I had asked it to meet for a reason that was as important to Kentucky's welfare as anything that might be considered during my administration. This very important thing is water, simply water.

Follow-up meetings were held in Frankfort just last week to discuss phases of the first meeting. One concerned itself with the shortage of water in the Kentucky River Valley and what could be done to relieve it in case of drought. The other had to do with the development of water resources for agriculture, particularly the irrigation of farm lands.

The need to be on the guard continuously against the pollution of water was graphically demonstrated just recently when Pineville in Southeastern Kentucky passed through a brief crisis caused by the taste and smell of kerosene in its city-supplied drinking water. For a few days, water was trucked in from Harlan and Middlesboro and given to people to drink in buckets, jugs and jars.

A larger and longer illustration of how difficult it is to do without a plentiful supply of water came last summer when the people of New York were forced to limit their use because of a drought and accompanying pollution. Reeling from water restrictions, that state in the November election approved a $1 billion bond issue to combat pollution.

Water is not only essential to the production of food, as everyone knows, but is industry's most important raw material. It requires as much as 110,000 gallons to produce one ton of steel, and up to 510,000 gallons for 1,000 yards of woolen cloth.

In the final analysis, water is the heart of our industry, our commerce and our agriculture. It is the key to future progress of America and other countries of the world. Water can be our master or our slave, depending on how wisely we control and utilize it.

Our President, in signing legislation authorizing a water conservation project, recently said he had never seen a dollar invested anywhere in this nation in water conservation, in multiple-use projects, that in a period of even a decade didn't prove it was a good investment and would pay very high returns on what was spent for it.

Tid-Bits

of Kentucky Folklore

"Same Old Aches and Pains"

Recently I had the good fortune to interview, for my folklore study, two of my former students who are now druggists, both graduates of pharmacy. After we had gone over a whole series of questions about words, I discovered that there was still a lot of unused tape that should be filled. Both of my visitors were in no hurry, and thus we had a good time contrasting medicines of other days and now.

Every generation has its pet diseases. In older times any undue worry or nervousness was called "the vapors." Now it is "allergy." And, say many druggist friends, there is more of it all the time. People just love to take medicine and receive treatments, especially if it is something new or is known by a new name. When I asked about bread pills, the old standby for people who have nothing wrong with them, I was told that placebos, the learned name for harmless pills, are always in demand. That word means "I will please," and a bit of bicarbonate of soda and some mint will not harm anyone. The funniest thing, however, is the belief that the color of a pill is a sign of its being more or less potent. Thus hundreds of colored aspirin tablets are sold, with only some vegetable dye added. But customers swear by the green or red or yellow ones and say that the white ones give them all sorts of digestive troubles. Innocent capsules are the popular placebos now.

Asthma—phthisic, if you like what older people called and call it—is on the increase, in spite of all the two dozen remedies that I have collected. And asthma dogs too, are getting more numerous. Witness the "For sale" items in our local paper, if you doubt my word and that of my former students.

Even in a drugstore the customers often declare how effective folk remedies are and of course, were. Good old smelly garlic still has defenders; less smelly onions have more friends than ever, if that is possible. Eating either one will help ward off disease. Can disease germs smell? Maybe so.

My good old friend gumbo-whackum is still very much alive. Not all druggists have the "gum guaiacum" that was corrupted in name to the folk name given above; but a good many remedies utilize the same gum and even keep part of the "guaiacum" name. The druggist in a neighboring county seat town who gave me a lump of guaiacum gum says he has many requests for it locally and even orders from ritzy drugstores in Louisville who have rural or ex-rural customers who want good old gumbo-whackum or gumbo-gwackum. As in the old religious folksong:

"It was good for our fathers; it's good enough for me."

Emetics, once a very big part of medicine, are rarely heard of now, but ipecac, the best of the lot, is still on the shelves. If you have swallowed something accidentally or tried to commit suicide by taking some remnants of medicine stored in the family clock, call for some ipecac to relieve you and, if necessary, allow your final departure from this world to be a little more orderly.

Malaria, once so common that everybody had had third-day chills, seems, in my area of the state, a lost disease. And I hope that it will remain that. I have too many memories of chills and fever, and lots of other old folks have told me that they, too, cannot for-

Need For Reforestation Cites Job Opportunities

A recent study indicates that within the lifetime of this generation America's wood requirements will exceed the supply. There will be markets for all the wood that can be grown in the United States.

Part of this demand is due to the ever-increasing population, along with a wider variety of uses of wood. Then too, more and more forest acreage is being taken out of production by lakes, city expansion, and new highways.

Since it takes about 20 years to grow a tree to pulpwood size and three times this long to grow sawlogs, providing for future wood needs depends on how rapidly reforestation progresses today.

Tree planting benefits include watershed protection, erosion control, wildlife food and cover, and most important of all, jobs and income. For every thousand acres planted to trees, a base for ten new full-time jobs is created.

Planting these acres means jobs for both skilled and unskilled labor, plus work for thousands of people needed to service the families involved. This includes grocers, doctors, service station operators, mechanics, etc. And these same acres could mean an average annual income of $15 an acre for those who plant trees and grow wood for the future.

You can play a part by understanding the need for reforestation. Explain it to others. Plant your own idle land and encourage your friends, neighbors, and relatives to do the same.

Letter From Washington

by Mrs. John Sherman Cooper

Kentucky, in October, is the most beautiful place I know. Sometimes the leaves are a little more apricot or scarlet, sometimes it needs more rain for the tobacco and sometimes it doesn't, but all-in-all there is nothing to compare with this lovely state in its autumnal glory. Each time we get back from Washington, it is a joy to visit the different parts of Kentucky, each so different from the other, each with its own personality and individual charm.

After being in Fulton, on the Mississippi, I visited Maysville and Louisville on the Ohio River, then back to the Bluegrass, on the Kentucky River, and home to Somerset on the Cumberland. No other state is blessed with as many great rivers.

While my husband has been speaking all over the Commonwealth, I, too, have been doing so many things that it is impossible to write you about all of them but I will tell you about a few.

The Symposium at the University of Kentucky about "Women—Equal but Different", which was organized by Mrs. Oswald, the wife of the President of the University, was particularly stimulating.

Another experience was a day at Eastern Kentucky State College with President and Mrs. Martin. My husband spoke to the Student Body in the morning and I met with and spoke to the Faculty Wives Club that evening. Eastern State College has grown under Dr. Martin's presidency, and my husband was much impressed by the understanding its students have of national and international problems.

Another happy experience during our visit to the Bluegrass was seeing Chloe Gifford again. I met her when she was the outstanding national president of the Federation of Women's Clubs and I greatly admired her ability to represent her country and Kentucky in its best tradition. Miss Gifford was kind enough to give a tea for me at Spindletop and the same night we were her guests at the Altrusa Club in Lexington. She called it "An Evening with Senator and Mrs. Cooper", and we both spoke after dinner. As my husband had never heard me make my kind of chatter before, I was extremely apprehensive. I am so used to being the listener and tapping my foot or staring at the clock when I think he is talking too long, that it was difficult to have the shoe on the other foot.

We are going back to Louisville for the Farm Bureau meeting, where again we both speak, but luckily in different rooms. Then back to Washington to attend the White House dinner, given in honor of Princess Margaret and Lord Snowden. I will write you about it in my next letter, probably from

Air Force One as we will be flying over the Pacific Ocean. The reason for this journey is that the Secretary of the Treasury and Mr. Eugene Black, former President of the World Bank, working with representatives of twenty-five other nations, have prepared a charter for the Asian Development Bank, and my husband and Senator Symington and the Chairman of the House Foreign Affairs and Finance Committees have been invited to be special advisers. The delegation will visit Japan, Thailand and the Philippines.

Happy Thanksgiving.

OLD NEWSPAPERS—

Fulton was the terminus of the road until a number of years after peace was declared, when the line was extended to Memphis. The families then living in and near the future city were the Carrs, McFalls, Paschalls, Collins, Eddings, Tomlinsons, Thomases. T. M. Thomas erected the first house on the Tennessee side about the time Mr. Woolridge opened the first store, a grocery, near the site of the P. & E. depot in 1861. When the war between the states burst upon the country all efforts at town building ceased, a number of those interested in the struggling village, which at that time numbered less than half a hundred people, heard the call of their beloved Southland and laid aside the implements of peace to shoulder a gun or draw a blade for the defense of home and country against the northern invader.

After Appomattox the distracted country turned to peaceful pursuits, and the survivors of the shattered and broken armies of the Confederacy returned to their homes to find desolation and ruin abroad in a once fair land. The founders of Fulton, "The Future Great," were numbered among the returning veterans, who set about building the future city. The rude structures of this period soon gave way to more substantial buildings of brick and stone, and there has been no interruption in the rapid and material progress of the city thus founded.

In 1872 the flourishing little town was incorporated under the name of Fulton and it was about this time that the Mississippi Central, as it was then known, later to be acquired with the old P. & E., which had been bought by the N. N. & M. V. by the Illinois Central, was extended through Jackson, Tenn. to Cairo, Illinois.

Following the railroad activities the town rapidly grew in population, people from north, east, south and west came to make their homes in the city with a future. Public improvements were added as the city grew in importance, rapidly becoming a commercial center with all the conveniences of the modern city.

Fulton of today is the capital of a section especially adapted to the growth of grain and tobacco. The quality of wheat produced in this immediate territory is superior to any raised elsewhere in the United States, while almost the entire tobacco crop of this country is bought by the Italian government at good prices. Besides flour mills, Fulton boasts five large tobacco barns which handle more than six million pounds per year. These give employment to a large number of men at remunerative wages. Through the efforts of the Merchants and Business Men's Association, about 500 acres of cotton were planted this season in the vicinity of Fulton and at an early date J. F. Clemmons, Sr., an experienced planter, contemplates erecting a large gin at this point. This new crop will bring in many thousands of dollars at a season of the year likely to prove most stimulating to trade, besides supplying the farmers with an additional ready money crop.

The live stock industry has leaped into the first rank as an important factor in the commercial progress of this section; during 1912 nearly as many dollars in stock were shipped from Fulton as of tobacco. For a number of years Fulton has been regarded as the largest and best mule market in the entire section. The following names are familiar to planters throughout the Southern States as being the most reliable dealers in mules and horses doing a large business: L. T. Callahan, Guy Howard, Guy Tucker, Joe Hurst, C. W. Fowler, E. C. Reeds.

Besides corn and wheat, this section produces other cereals like oats and rye. Alfalfa and all the hay crops and grasses are profitably grown in this country.

Another very important industry, contributing very materially to the prosperity of our people, is the poultry and egg business, reaching the enormous figure of $400,000 annually. Chickens, turkeys, ducks, geese and all kinds of barnyard fowls and eggs are shipped to the big markets of the country, swelling the revenue of the farmer and shipper.

In a comparatively brief time work will begin on a handsome $50,000 postoffice building by the Federal government at a lot on the corner of Main and Washington Streets. Within thirty days free city mail delivery will be inaugurated, adding much to the convenience of the people.

The Fulton County Fair will soon celebrate its third anniversary by giving an unrivaled exhibition of live stock, farm products, prize winning poultry, in addition to furnishing a week's program of racing. The plant of the Fulton County Fair Association represents an investment of more than $15,000, the stock being largely owned by the farmers and stock raisers of the community. The buildings for the accommodation of exhibits are of a substantial nature and the site occupied by the plant is ideal.

Breathitt To Give Preview Of Assembly

Governor Edward T. Breathitt is expected to present a general preview of his 1966 legislative program at a pre-legislative conference of members of the new General Assembly December 5-7 at Kentucky Dam Village State Park.

James T. Fleming, director of the Legislative Research Commission, said practically all 138 members of the 1966 Legislature have indicated they will attend.

One purpose of the conference is to acquaint new members with legislative procedure. Eight of the 38 senators and 23 of the 100 representatives have had no previous service.

Another objective, Fleming said, is to give the members, old and new, the opportunity to become acquainted with one another in an atmosphere "not subject to outside pressure."

The LRC director added that registration for the conference will be limited to assemblymen, staff personnel, the governor, his department heads, and representatives of news media.

The 1966 General Assembly convenes January 4.

Student Council Organizes for Year

From The SFH "Hades Herald"

The Students Council for the school year of 1965-66 is as follows:

President - Teresa Pennington
Vice-President - Christina McKinney

Secretary - Phyllis Alexander
Treasurer - Karen Taylor
Reporters - Peggy Sturgis & Phillip Moss

Members of the student council are: Velma Carville, Steve Green, Bobbie Huffine, Chris McKinney, Susie Malray, Teresa Pennington, Charles Walker, Karen Taylor, Phillip Moss, Peggy Sturgis, Phyllis Alexander, Susan Tegethoff, Marilyn Moss, Pat Holladay, Peggy Connell.

The Student Council has planned many activities for the year. First of all they've instituted assembly programs given by the classes. Each month there will be an assembly given by a different class.

Later on this month the Student Council will be selling candy. The proceeds will go to the Council treasury with most of it eventually being put to a good use within the school.

In observance of American Education Week several members of the council presented a one-act play over WENK radio at Union City and WFUL radio at Fulton. Those participating were Charles Walker, Marilyn Moss, Patricia Holladay, Phillip Moss, Steve Green, Susan Tegethoff, Teresa Pennington, and Gene Cannon.

The biggest item on the agenda is "Career Day." There has already been much planning made toward this day. Further detail will be announced later.

The Student Council is interested in putting up a suggestion box. They feel that many students would have some very good suggestions for improvement of our school. If such a box is decided upon on the council hopes the students will take advantage of it. If a student has a legitimate gripe the council wants to know.

Red Devils Have Successful Season: 9 Wins, One Loss, Conference Champs

From The SFH "Hades Herald"

The South Fulton High School Football team had a grand season this year. Their first victory was a hard fought win over Lake County.

The scores were made by Hamilton-13 and Green-12. Then the Devils played the following week at Greenfield. This was a game of crazy plays and mistakes with South Fulton coming out on top by a score of 26 to 20. In this game Donny Parr scored 6 points, Greg Hamilton 13 points and Jack Simpson picked up a fumble in the last minute and a half of the game and ran the winning score. After Greenfield came Gleason which the Red Devils beat by a score of 48-7. Greg Hamilton scored a total of 27 points, Alan Ingram 6 points, Steve Green 12 points and Donnie Parr 3 points. Following Gleason the Red Devils played their usual brand of ball for three quarters then a number of mistakes cost the Red Devils the game by a score of 35 to 29. In this game Greg Hamilton scored 8 points, Lee Ingram 8 points, James Counce 6 points. After the last to Martin the Red Devils returned home the next week to play their homecoming game with Alamo and started another winning string of victories with a 28-14 victory over Alamo. In this game Jack Simpson made 8 points, Greg Hamilton 14 points, and Steve Green 6 points.

Following Alamo the Red Devils played Fulton County at home and won 40 to 13. In this game James Counce caught two passes for 12 points, Jack Simpson 6 points, Steve Green scored 12 points, and Greg Hamilton scored 10 points. Sharon came to South Fulton the next week to be defeated by the Devils by a score of 25 to 14. Greg Hamilton scored 19 points, Steve Green 6 points.

The next week was the game the Red Devils had been looking forward to all season. The game with Fulton City was one of the Red Devils best defensive games of the year, but the offense never got to going as it had in the past. South Fulton won 2 to 0 when Robert Moss tackled Phil Flannigan in the end zone for a safety.

The next week the Red Devils traveled to Obion Central and not playing the type of ball they were capable of playing had to settle for a 13-13 tie. In this game Donnie Parr scored 6 points, Jack Simpson 6 points, and Greg Hamilton 1 point.

The Red Devils returned home to play the Dresden Lions for their final game of the season, and the importance of the outcome of the game giving the Red Devils the Western Division Conference Champs and a chance to play in the Conference playoff. This was done by a 25 to 0 score. Greg Hamilton scored 13 points, Steve Green 6 points, and Jack Simpson 6 points.

The South Fulton Red Devils as of November 11, 1965 are the Reelfoot Conference Champs defeating Greenfield by the score of 31 to 28. Not only did the Devils have the high honor of being the Reelfoot Conference Champs but their fine coach Charles Akers received the well deserved honor of "Coach Of The Year!"

CONGRATULATIONS DEVILS! WE'RE PROUD OF YOU!

Definition Of An Amigo

By Teresa Pennington
From The SFH "Hades Herald"

Just exactly who was an Amigo? was it a person who had dark hair and eyes, who spoke a language called Spanish, and who was viewed with quite a bit of interest because she was different? An Amigo was all of these, but she was something else too.

First of all, she was a teenager just as most of the students at S. F. are. As a teenager she faced many of the same problems we as American teenagers face. She enjoyed many of the same activities we enjoy. She worshiped the same God as we do.

An Amigo was someone I learned to love. For two weeks I shared everyday with her. We learned to laugh together, to be serious together, and to learn together. All three processes made those two weeks the most memorable of my life. What I learned from my Amigo would take more space to write than I have here. Therefore, I'll try to do it with one paragraph.

First and foremost, I wonderful more appreciative of the wonderful America in which I am privileged to live. I realized for the first time that others aren't as fortunate as we.

Although I always knew there were other countries in the world, they never became real until I actually met someone from a different land. This helped me to see that truly no man is an island, and that we as Americans often tend to forget this fact. It's easy for us with all our nation's wealth to become so involved with our culture that we forget there are other people and lands around the world.

Last of all, I made a wonderful friend. Actually I feel that she is more of a sister than a friend. She is my sister from South America, and though there be many mountains, much land, and the salt water of oceans separating us, we'll never really be separated, for these things can't separate two people who share the bond of friendship and love.

Barry is a member of the Beta club and vice-president of the sophomore class. Junior: Nancy Jones and Steve Green. Nancy is a member of the F. H. A. and vice-president of the junior class. Steve is a member of the Beta club, student council, and he is the vice-president of the junior class.

Senior: Linda Nanney and Craig Simrell. Linda is a member of the Beta club, 4-H club, Paper Staff, and Annual Staff. Craig is a member of the 4-H club, Paper Staff, Annual Staff, and president of the senior class.

It is a great honor for a student to be elected a class favorite. To all these mentioned above Congratulations!

Kentucky In Ecuador Bearing Electrical Gifts

With small electric appliances in hand, a group of eighteen rural electrification leaders and other interested persons left Louisville Sunday, November 21, for a five-day goodwill tour of three Latin American countries. The tour will include stops in Panama, Colombia, and Ecuador.

The group departed from Louisville by plane Sunday at noon. The first stop in Latin America was at Bogota, Colombia, where a tour of the city and surrounding area had been arranged. The itinerary then called for the trip to continue to Quito and Guayaquil, Ecuador. During their stay in Ecuador, the tour members will visit Santo Domingo and Daule where they will attend the annual membership meetings of the rural electric co-operatives in those towns.

They will depart from Guayaquil, Ecuador, on Saturday afternoon, November 27, for the return trip to the United States, stopping enroute in Panama City, Panama. The group will take numerous tours of places of interest at each stop. They are scheduled to arrive back in Louisville Sunday evening.

The tour is a part of a "person-to-person" program to promote better understanding between the people of Latin America and Kentucky.

Kentucky's rural electric has adopted Ecuador as the county they will assist in developing rural electrification. The program began as the result of a feasibility study made by Warren RECC Manager Charles Stewart, Bowling Green. The study was conducted under the direction of the Agency for International Development.

Since the original study, two rural electric cooperatives have been developed in Ecuador; one in Santo Domingo and the other in Daule. Kentucky's rural electric cooperatives have donated two shipments of obsolete and surplus material and supplies to the co-operatives in Ecuador. The material had an estimated value of $20,000 as scrap in this country, but was valued at approximately $200,000 by the Ecuadorians.

The novel idea of each participant ing tour member taking along two used electric appliances was for the purpose of fostering a closer personal relationship between rural electrification members in Ecuador and their counterparts in Kentucky. The appliances will be used as door prizes at the two annual meetings. Each gift will carry the name and address of the donor as a means fostering the desired personal relationship. It is hoped that the recipient of the gift will correspond with the donor in Kentucky.

Those who will participate in the tour include W. O. Penn of Cynthiana; Thomas Barker, Jr. of Shelbyville; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Templeman of Cecelia; Clem S. Tharp and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Scott, all of Elizabethtown; Barton Moses of Greenfield, Indiana; Ted M. Hampton, Jr. of Corbin; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Denny of Lexington; Frank Jackson of Independence; W. E. Gevedon of West Liberty; C. W. Murphy of Campton; Glenn Oldfield of Mize; Leslie G. Jenkins of Brandenburg, and J. K. Smith and Robert Cleveland of Louisville.

Mrs. Braswell Urges Check Of Home Safety

Each year some 370 Kentuckians die from accidental falls—a toll exceeded only by motor vehicle accidents which claim well over 800 a year. Based on data from the National Health Survey, Mrs. Braswell, Fulton County public health nurse says that an estimated 230,000 Kentuckians annually suffer non-fatal injuries from falls serious enough to cause at least one day of restricted activity or to require medical attention. Well over one fourth of these injuries result in one or more days in bed.

Nearly three fourths of the fatal falls occur among men and women who are 65 and over. While only about four per cent of fatal falls occur to children under 15 years of age, more than two fifths of the nonfatal falls happen to children. Of the 370 fatal falls each year in Kentucky, approximately 250 of them happen at home. This reflects the great amount of time elderly persons and children spend in the home. The second largest number of falls occur in residential homes where many older persons live. Lesser numbers of falls occur in public buildings, streets or highways, in places for recreation or sport, and on farms.

In view of these statistics, Mrs. Braswell urges all Fulton Countians to check up on home safety factors. A safety inventory of your home today may keep you or your children from becoming an accident statistic next year.

Most falls in the high risk groups are on the same level and this should be a first guide in accident prevention. Homes should be kept in good repair—that loose board is just asking for trouble, fix it! Make sure there are night lights where needed. Are your rugs slippery? Well, they don't have to be, there are many ways to make them secure. Spill something? Clean it up right away. Watch those toys and other objects—don't leave them lying around on the floor. Check your house over and be careful!

A new publication by the USDA Soil Conservation Service describing a new plant that will attract wildlife, conserve soil and beauty odd areas was announced today by H. F. Smith, Work Unit Conservationist assisting the Fulton County Soil Conservation District.

The publication, "Autumn Olive," concerns Cardinal Autumn Olive—a new strain of autumn olive developed by Soil Conservation Service plant materials specialists and noted hardiness, yield, and growth under a wide range of soil and climatic conditions.

"It is adapted from Maine to Georgia and westward to Missouri," Smith said, "and is particularly useful on infertile sites such as strip-mine spoil banks, sand-blow areas, steambanks, and gullied areas."

Songbirds find the branches of autumn olive excellent places for their nests, and birds and several animals feed on the red berries.

Barry Gives Warnings For Safe Hunting

With the opening of rabbit season in Kentucky on November 18, Harry Barry, Fulton County health officer reminds Kentucky hunters of the precautions necessary to be sure that rabbits are the season's only casualties.

Firearm accidents occur most often during the month of November. One second of carelessness can mean the difference between life and death for a hunter. Always treat your gun as if it were loaded. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger. Many hunters have lost their lives by being mistaken for an animal.

Mr. Barry also urged hunters to be sure their dogs have been vaccinated against rabies since this disease still occurs in such Kentucky wildlife as foxes, raccoons, skunks, and bats.

Tularemia or "rabbit fever" is another disease that spreads from wildlife to man. Mr. Barry advises that hunters take the following safeguards against this disease:

- Avoid animals that appear unhealthy; sluggish or slow-moving wildlife may be diseased.
- Wear rubber gloves when dressing or skinning animals. Destroy any animal whose internal organs are studded with white spots.
- Cook game thoroughly before eating.
- Drink water only from approved sources.
- Don't let your day of hunting fun turn into hunting tragedy. Remember, good hunting is safe hunting.

Down on the Farm

With JIM PRYOR
Agricultural Agent, Illinois Central Railroad
Fall Fertilization?

Farmers usually apply most of their fertilizer near planting time. Large acreages are planted in the spring and this causes a greater movement of fertilizer during a few weeks. Many problems often result: delayed planting, damage to wet soils, labor taken from critical operations, difficulty for industry to move so much fertilizer on short notice, and restricted available fertilizers needed.

New technology has found higher rates of application and different methods in spreading plant nutrients. Fertilization at planting time has been reduced.

Twenty or thirty years ago, amounts of fertilizer used per acre was only a fraction of that used today. In addition, material had a much lower analysis. Proper methods or time of applying say, 80 pounds of 2-12-6 for corn was not the same as applying 300 pounds 6-24-24.

Generally, there are two ways to maintain high soil fertility. Some call them soil fertilization and crop fertilization. When a farmer uses either one of these he builds soil fertility to an optimum level according to soil tests and then fertilizes at a rate high enough to maintain this level, or he may fertilize each crop near time of planting.

Increases in rates of fertilization in recent years have led many to study methods of application. Farmers have gained much knowledge from such studies.

Fall is a convenient time to fertilize. Broadcast soil-yielding applications as well as a maintenance supply when it is convenient. Most agricultural specialists agree, soil should be dry to avoid compaction by heavy trucks and spreaders, and harvesting should always be completed. These conditions usually occur in the fall. During this season the soil is dry and there is time to broadcast and plow-down plant food. Soil testing laboratories will also get results back fast. In some cases farmers may wish to use plant food in hands for uniform early growth. Most of the fertilizer being used as a broadcast and plow-down application. This should result in a more timely planting date and higher yields.

Broadcast applications can be made rapidly using either trucks or tow-type bulk spreaders. Spring applications often compact moist soil and there is danger of getting stuck in low areas. This leads to costly delays and could reduce future yields. Many claim actual costs are lower per ton in the fall.

Our soil is a reservoir for plant food. This item is all we have to market from the farm. We cannot just look at soil and tell if there is enough available to produce 100 bushels of corn. A soil test is the first answer. Next, fertility should be in the root zone, rather than a high concentration in just one spot. This leaves a large area without valuable nutrients.

overalls who occasionally comes to town. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Successful small farmers, especially in this age of agribusiness, are first-rate businessmen with knowledge to make their living from the soil.

Although there are less than half as many farmers in the United States as there were 25 years ago, our country still enjoys the highest standard of living in the world. This has been made possible by great strides in agriculture technology, which in itself is a tribute to progressive-minded tillers of the soil.

It is important to realize that the consumer is partly to blame for the high cost of living. He demands small packages of food wrapped in cellophane... and in many cases already cooked; as a result, prices increase.

In other words, this built-in maid service is a determining factor in rising prices.

By Roy Manner

First, let me wish each one of you a very happy Thanksgiving; to some of us it will be joy and to some of us sorrow.

The weather is not too bad for this time of year. All over the city they have Christmas decorations and stores are busy with shoppers. Just recently they had an old-fashioned square dance at Cobo Hall and a few showed up, about 3,000 couples, some professionals and a lot of amateurs. They had eight callers and all had a good time.

Got a call from Herbert and Be: Goulder. They were at Ford's showing of new tractors and stayed at the Dearborn Inn.

D. J. Murchison called us from Port Huron, but did not have time to come to see us. He works on the mail train from Chicago to Port Huron and only had a short time before his train pulled out.

November 13 and 14 at Cobo Hall a bake show was held. They showed how to decorate cakes, prepare food and, as a finale, had the originator of the cake walk dance. Some asked about the size of Cobo Hall; you can seat 50,000 for a meeting, plus fourteen dining rooms with 50 to 100 in each, plus parking for 20,000 cars. This is not counting the first floor. The cost was $38 million to build.

Our Governor George Romney went to Viet Nam to see for himself and to see the boys from Michigan. Came back and gave his report on TV and radio.

Friday night at Blanche Fisk's house they had a jewelry party and so many women were there.

Saturday night was our class party in the church basement. It was pot-luck and then we cut the birthday cake for all who had a birthday since last meeting and sang a few songs.

Sunday after services we had a good dinner in the church fellowship hall for Rev. and Mrs. Hessler and children. Everybody brought a few dishes and all stayed for fellowship meeting. Rev. Hessler is our supply pastor until we can get a regular pastor.

Leslie McAlister and some of the men went deer hunting Saturday. No report at present.

This year, as always, we will have baskets for the needy folks and they are always full to the top with good things to eat.

Jim and Frances Gariand will have about 17 for dinner, including mammas, pops, cousins and friends.

The new church at Perry, Mich., is doing very nicely for having just been started last August. Mr. Eul Phelps is their supply pastor and is bringing some very good messages.

D. J. Adams is still in New Grace Hospital, no improvement as yet. Dennis McAlister is now better, after the sore throat trouble he was having.

Just a reminder from your eye specialists to take care of your eyes. You can walk on wooden legs, you can chew with false teeth, but you cannot see with glass eyes.

Remember, if you go to church regularly, living in America will mean more to you. Try and see if it doesn't.

With the holidays coming, you should have some news. Call me at 293-8161.

Chapel Hill and Johnson Grove churches will have a joint Thanksgiving service at Chapel Hill Wednesday night. There will be a pot-luck dinner preceding the service.

Rev. McDonald, from Mayfield, brought the message at eleven o'clock last Sunday morning at Johnson Grove, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Jack Rushin, who is ill.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Whitehead, of Martin, spent Sunday with their daughter, Mrs. Almus Polsgrove.

Mr. and Mrs. John Smith spent last Monday night in Paducah with the Wallace Cunningham family.

Mrs. Jack Lowe and Mrs. Frank Ferguson visited Mr. and Mrs. Carl Copeland, near Mayfield, last Wednesday.

Mrs. Ann Whitnel, Mrs. Lillian Williams and Mrs. Nora Alexander visited Mrs. Charles Lowe last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob DeMyer entertained with a dinner last Tuesday night. Guests were: Roberta DeMyer, Paula Long, Jack Matthews, Mrs. Jack Rushin, James and Jeanie.

I want to thank the many friends for the remembrances on my 81st birthday last Friday. The 55 cards, gifts and many telephone calls were greatly appreciated.

Health Insurer Attacks Adage Of "Feed Cold, Starve Fever"

If you've been applying the adage "feed a cold and starve a fever" to your colds and other minor winter ailments, forget it.

It's sometimes better, in fact, to do the opposite, say medical specialists.

When you have a cold and aren't really hungry, they advise, don't eat excessively; your condition is particularly conducive to stomach upset. And don't be afraid of taking extra nourishment when you have a fever. You'll be replacing calories burned by higher body temperatures.

Your best bet, is to eat well-balanced meals at all times. That will help you maintain the good general health that gives you an edge in combating the common cold, a malady that plagues some 20 million Americans on any given winter day.

In a public service pamphlet titled "Cold Facts About the Common Cold," the insurance company doctors offer these additional tips to help prevent colds and minimize their discomfort when they do strike:

1. To reduce chances of getting a cold, steer clear of cold sufferers and don't use their towels, drinking glasses, or eating utensils. Avoid cold drafts, wet feet, and fatigue.
2. Practice good personal hygiene. Always wash your hands before preparing or eating food.
3. Maintain sufficient humidity in your home and, if possible, in your office, especially during the winter heating season. A dry nose and throat contributes to the possibility of infection.

4. If a cold strikes, don't experiment with pills and medicines remaining from previous illnesses or with remedies recommended by friends. Many more serious illnesses will imitate the early symptoms of a cold. All colds are not alike and what's right for one may not be for another.

5. Blot, don't blow your nose. Blowing the nose may force infection into the sinuses, prolonging your cold. Use disposable tissues to blot excess mucus as necessary.

6. Get extra bed rest and keep comfortably warm.

7. If cold symptoms persist longer than a few days, or if a fever develops, call a doctor.

★ THANKSGIVING FOR...

- PROSPEROUS NATION
- FOOD
- A STRONG NATION
- FREEDOM OF WORSHIP

Pages could be filled with ways that God has blessed us, and we should be continually thankful for God's goodness. At this time, however, we should pause from our daily workday habits and in unison, give special thanks to God, that we still have freedom of worship.

Attend church this Thanksgiving weekend

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Telephone Talk

THANKSGIVING DAY IN AMERICA dates from a festival held by the people of the Plymouth Colony in December 1621. Have you ever thought about what they were thankful for. They were thankful for surviving a hard winter. For a good crop of corn. For shelter that shut out the rain. For the chance to make a living and build homes. They had no "extras."

Just basic, bare necessities... but they still remembered gratitude. So often we take shelter, survival, and jobs, for granted. This Thanksgiving, let's remember to be grateful for the things we consider "ordinary" as well as for the extraordinary benefits we enjoy as inheritors of the traditions begun by those early settlers.

HOW TO MAKE A KISS-PROOF TELEPHONE! That was the problem turned over to Bell Telephone Laboratories... develop a telephone that can't be permanently stained by lipstick and other cosmetics. It seems that the plastic formerly used in telephones absorbed the red dyes in cosmetics, and no amount of washing could remove them. Well, after much experimentation, the scientists came up with an entirely new kind of plastic. One that simply couldn't be penetrated by cosmetic dyes. So ladies, be as affectionate as you please while telephoning. Thanks to Bell scientists, your phone can be kept clean with a damp cloth and mild soap. You can look your best while telephoning... and so can your phone!

YOU'VE PROBABLY HEARD THE TERM "DON'T OVER-EXTEND YOURSELF." Don't try to do too much in too little time, or you'll end up doing nothing right! Well, that's good advice. But we have some advice that's even better. Do extend yourself with extension telephones. Extension phones help you save time because you can reach instead of running when the phone rings! An extension in the kitchen lets mom talk to neighbors while she cooks. An extension in the den gives dad a place for private business calls. And, of course, every teenager needs a phone of his own to make those very personal calls to the girlfriend. So remember, you can extend yourself... with extension phones. They come in several styles and colors. So why not call our Business Office about extension phones for your home, now?

Methodists Plan Revival Starting November 28th

Bishop Arthur J. Moore, world-renowned evangelist, author, and former President of the Methodist Church Board of Missions, will be in Fulton next week to conduct revival services at First Methodist Church.

The revival will begin Sunday, November 28, with Bishop Moore speaking at the 11:00 a. m. service, and again at 7:30 p. m. Monday through Friday, services will be held at 7:00 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Prof. Robert K. Barr of Murray State College will direct the music for the series of meetings, and the adult choir of the church will sing each evening. Rev. W. T. Barnes is pastor of the church.

Bishop Moore held pastorates in San Antonio, Texas, and Birmingham, Alabama, before he was named a bishop in 1930. As "an ambassador of Methodism," Bishop Moore has held assignments in thirty-one different nations. He served as President of the Board of Missions from 1939 to 1960, and was President of the Council of Bishops for the term 1951-52. He has also been Chairman of the church's Southeastern Jurisdictional Council. He is the author of five books.

Bishop Moore holds degrees from Emory University, Central College in Missouri, Asbury College, Florida Southern, Randolph-Macon, and Southwestern in Georgetown, Texas. He holds a Phi Beta Kappa Key and is a 32nd degree Mason. All residents of this area are invited to take advantage of the opportunity of hearing this noted evangelist here next week.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY

AND AWAY THEY GO with a somber and prayerful thought that when the gift boxes being loaded in a truck donated by the Fulton Wholesale Florist arrive in Viet Nam the recipients will know that the folks in Fulton are "on their side." Left to right are John Jackson, Charles Dixon and Sonny Puckett.

FULTON BAND—

one uniform to spare.

This group of children is working frantically to make themselves a first place winning band and even trying to help raise some of the money themselves by selling banana bags, raking leaves, etc. These efforts are all appreciated, but it takes a lot of leaf raking to raise $2500.00 for instruments alone.

This year is the first year in many when any major instruments have been purchased, so the lack is a long standing one.

Fulton is a remarkable place in that it supports all projects and lets none go begging. Now the band is needing help from everyone in any amount to help make them a winning band and an organization in which the whole community can feel pride.

munity can feel pride.

The treasurer, L. M. McBride, reported that the band has received donations from Mrs. M. W. Haws, Mrs. C. H. Myers, Mr. Frank Welch, Elks Club, West Fulton PTA, YMBC, Fulton Board of Education and Rev. John Platt.

Don't forget the band will be in Union City's Christmas Parade, so go see them and give them hometown support.

NOTEBOOK—

a family whose business went to pot because the family abandoned everything to help another family in dire need. How about that?

A death or illness in a family finds neighbors bringing in more food than can be consumed by an Army. A tragedy or an incident of hard luck even finds relatives and friends building houses, harvesting and planting crops. Yes, this is the valley of kindness when a fellow needs a friend.

In politics, business, sports and other competition we can all be means as . . . but you let a fellow get down and out through no fault of his own and the town's right there at his side.

Yup, maybe we've been too busy helping our fellowman to get rich . . . and to grow . . . but gee, we're sure having a lot of fun!

Grandparents Treasure Most Tot's 'Made it Myself' Gift

Gifts from the grandchildren that say, "I made it myself," are the ones that brighten the holiday season most for Grandma and Grandpa.

And the child who learns early that creating his own gifts gives a special meaning to the holiday, has also learned the real spirit of Christmas giving.

Original art work from kindergarten and grade schoolers is always a welcome gift for grand- parents, and it has the added value of being a project which most chil- dren enjoy.

Any youngster old enough to handle a pair of blunt-end scissors and a pencil can create an original collage for Christmas gift-giving. Besides the scissors and pencil, all he'll need is adhesive covering in various colors and patterns, a light- weight piece of cardboard and his imagination.

Mother and youngster together can choose the subject. Does Grand- ma have a cat? Does Grandpa like boats? Would both like portraits of themselves as seen through the eyes of an eight-year old? Discuss sev- eral ideas, covering the interests of both giver and receiver.

Then have the child trace his picture on a piece of paper before deciding on the color combination. A happy pre-holiday excursion will be a trip to the store with mother to pick out the Marvalon adhesive covering colors or patterns that match his artistic efforts.

Each section of the original drawing should be cut out, then traced on the Marvalon backing sheet. Be- fore removing the backing, let him position his picture on cardboard. Section by section, he can then re- move the backing and press the ad- hesive covering in place. The final touch, of course, is adding his sig- nature to the masterpiece.

And a special finishing touch from Mother might be an inexpen- sive picture frame, perhaps spray- painted to match the color combina- tion of the small fry art.

Easy-to-use adhesive covering eliminates paste pot smudges on art work, youngster, and furniture, keeping mom's temper at an even keel during the holiday season. And, on Christmas day, the pride of your "did-it-myself" grade schooler will be matched only by that of the de- lighted recipient.

Good Hostess' Secret Is Early Preparation

Here are some hints to save time and cut work in the busy hours be- fore a holiday party.

Prepare as much of your center- piece as possible early in the day. Whether you prefer to arrange flowers or fruit, paper towels will come in handy. Wrap dampened towels around cut flowers to keep them fresh in the centerpiece. Shine apples, pears, avocados and oranges with them. And use double-layer Kleenex paper towels when you polish silverware, too.

When preparing food for the party, use throwaway paper towels for wiping spills, cleaning table and counter tops, and draining vege- tables and fried foods, as well as for drying hands.

Tissues Aid Winter Driving

Wintry cold means steamed-up windshields and fogged glasses. Un- fortunately, it also means sneezes and sniffles. For a handy answer for all these problems, keep a box of junior-size Kleenex tissues in the car. Hold it on the visor with two large rubber bands, so tissues are easily reached for any situation.

FBI Probing Auto Thefts

Dealers Implicate
Chandler Beard

A used car dealer in Nash- ville said today that Chandler O. Beard, longtime Northwest auto dealer and truck company operator, sold him eight auto- mobiles which the Federal Bureau of Investigation says were stolen.

The statement was made to the Associated Press by D. D. Blasinger Jr., owner of Nash- ville's Economy Motor Co., who valued the cars at $80,000.

The FBI has launched an investigation into what has been described as a large-scale auto theft ring operating in Tennes- see.

The probe is expected to switch now to Weakley county where several auto dealers have reported buying cars from Beard. One of the dealers is Bill Beard, one of the owners of Beard's Chevrolet Co. in Martin, who reported he has purchased nine cars this year from Chandler Beard, a coun- sin.

Two other Martin dealers, Jack Dotson and J. B. Coley, said they purchased six cars from Chandler Beard since the first of the year and that four of the cars have been confirmed as stolen.

"The FBI is checking on the others right now," Coley said. Several other cars sold by Beard to various dealers also are being checked by the FBI, it has been reported.

The FBI has declined offi- cial comment on the case and no charges have yet been filed.

Crowd Of 700 Pays Tribute To Frank Clement

MORRISTOWN, Tenn. — A bipartisan crowd estimated at 700 paid tribute to Gov. Frank Clement Tuesday night, and two speakers said they felt Clement should again seek public office. Morristown Mayor C. Frank Davis presented Clement with a key to the city and mentioned that it also might fit the lock to the Senate.

Former Sen. Herbert S. Walston, D-Tenn., received a certificate of appreciation from Clement and urged the gov- ernor to "stay in public office." Clement, who under state law cannot succeed himself, did not make any comment on his fu- ture political plans.

Rose Wreath Decor Adds Holiday Cheer

For a new and easy Christmas decorating touch, try Kimberly Rose wreaths. All it takes is facial tissues, floral wire, a styrofoam circle, and straight pins to make the Christmas wreath of delicate-looking tissue roses. This year you can use white Christmas tissues covered with a design of red and green pine boughs.

Begin each rose with two tissues. Lay them out flat, overlapping about an inch and a half, and fold them in half lengthwise. Fold them lengthwise again, this time only three-quarters of the way across.

Make about five to seven small accordion pleats at one end of the tissue. Next, hold onto the pleats by their top edges. Wind the tis- sues around the pleats. Last, wrap floral wire around the stem.

To make a wreath, attach the Kimberly roses to a styrofoam circle with straight pins. The bigger the circle, the bigger the wreath.

The rose wreaths are sturdy enough to use outdoors on porches protected from the weather, and of course, indoors in windows, or on doors and mantel pieces. They are a refreshing burst of color anywhere in the house.

For other easy-to-follow directions for making decorations, centerpieces, bouquets, and party favors from Kleenex products, send 25 cents to Kimberly-Clark Corporation, P.O. Box 551, Neenah, Wisconsin, for "Flowers, Gifts, and Gadgets," a booklet complete with illustrations and patterns.

Ky. Farm Bureau Convention Ends; Ison New President

Kentucky Farm Bureau dele- gates would up their 46th annual convention at the Kentucky Ho- tel in Louisville with the elec- tion of Louis F. Ison, 50, a Mercer County farmer, to suc- ceed Jack Welch, Owenton, as president.

Earlier, the delegates adopted more than 36 typewritten pages of resolutions covering the organization's position on about every phase of farm life, as well as opposition to repeal of the "right-to-work" law and higher Social Security rates and support for U. S. troops in Viet Nam.

Only a few of the resolutions were debated, but one delegate, Dennis W. Penick, Logan Coun- ty, asked that the organization and the American Farm Bureau Federation work with the Nation- al Marketing Commission in stud- ying marketing margins of farm products.

"Somebody is making a good profit out of farm products," he said, adding that he recently read a report that some meat handlers make up to $60 profit on a 600-pound beef carcass. Ison, the organization's new president, owns and operates a 600-acre tobacco and livestock farm near Harrodsburg. He formerly was first vice-presi- dent and was also chairman of the tobacco committee.

Other new officers are Lucian Isbell, Fulton County, first vice- president, and J. Robert Wade, Simpson County, second vice- president.

New directors are Billy Smith, Murray; Ernie Quinn, Hopkins County; Ray Mackey, Sonora; Vernon Taylor, Bracken County; Mrs. Hugh Turner, Fayette County; Bob Broadbent, Trigg County, and Claude Costigan, Frankfort.

Official Speaks At Obion Dec. 8

W. A. Bradfield, director of public relations at Freed-Hardeman college, will speak at the Obion Church of Christ Wednesday night, Dec. 8, at 7:30 p.m. on the subject, "Problems Facing Youth." At 7 p.m., he will show colored slides of the Freed-Hardeman college cam- pus and activities. Both old and young are invited to come and hear the lecture and see the colored slides. He will have information about the Mid-South Youth Camp.

Mr. Bradfield has been as- sociated with Freed-Hardeman college for more than 16 years. He has edited the Freed-Har- deman Alumnograms since 1950. He has preached the gospel in 20 states and the District of Columbia, and has published more than 6 million copies of 25 gospel tracts. In 1964, he published a multipurpose book entitled "Bradfield's Sermon Outlines" with many extra fea- tures.

Bough-Imprint Tissues Liven Christmas Scene

This year there's something spe- cial to add a decorative touch for the holidays. Kleenex Christmas tis- sues, in a seasonal red, green and gold box, will add sparkle to guest rooms, bedrooms, kitchens and bath- rooms.

The tissues themselves can per- form all kinds of holiday duties beyond their conventional ones. Printed with a red and green bough design, they're pretty enough to wrap around cups at a holiday egg- nog party. And be sure to keep a box near the mistletoe!

Central Rebels Down South Fulton's Devils

Central's Rebels outgunned South Fulton's Devils in a pair of cage games played at South Fulton Tuesday night.

The Central girls rolled to a 52-27 victory while the boys had to battle all the way to take a 43-33 win.

Leading the Central girls were Kay Robinson with 25 points and Rosemary Thompson with 22.

South Fulton Coach "Wyatt Cunningham said that despite his girls' loss he was well pleased with their performance. "Our forwards are inexperienced. We played right with them all the way except for the scoring. The only difference was they were hitting and we weren't," he said.

Of the Central girls he said, "They have as good an offense as there is anywhere. However their guards are a little inexperienced."

South Fulton's boys hit the floor with a brand new team after all five starters graduated last year. Coach Cunningham thinks Charles Stinson, who stands 6-3, is a good prospect and he praised Jim Conner's play on the boards.

The Central team pressed all the way and, with about three minutes to go, collected on a one-and-one situation which put them about four points ahead. This, Coach Cunningham feels, was the turning point. He said his boys had to take chances to try to get the ball and in doing so committed fouls and floor mistakes.

For Central Roy Petty with 21 points was the leading scorer while Stinson had 10 for South Fulton.

Rives Teams Split With South Fulton

Rives elementary teams split a doubleheader with visiting South Fulton Monday night.

The Pantherettes came on strong with a 20-point lead at halftime to take a 51-30 decision. Emily Thompson scored a cool 33 points to lead the winners. In the nightcap South Fulton won 31-21.

South Fulton's superior height paid off in a hard-fought game with the lead changing hands. Rives led 11-8 in the first period and 16-13 at halftime. The junior Red Devils rallied, holding the Panthers scoreless while gaining 10 points in the third period.

South Fulton Is Downed

The Palmersville Pirates rolled over South Fulton in a basketball game at South Fulton Friday night, 66-39, for their fifth win of the season. South Fulton won the girls' game, 41-38.

Palmersville's Frank Wright led the charge with 31 points. Gary Montgomery added 12 as the winners led at the half, 37-14.

Perry Sneed paced South Fulton with 18 points as the Red Devils are winless in two games.

Teresa Pennington and Brenda Archer sank 15 and 11 points each for the South Fulton sextet. Linda Pentecost was high for Palmersville with 23 points.

Christmas Parade Short On Floats

Float entries for the forthcoming Union City Christmas Parade have been slow in coming in and parade planners said today only six have been received to date.

"Colorful floats help to make a parade and especially a Christmas parade," Howard Burns, parade chairman, said today.

Mr. Burns emphasized that each club or other organization entering a float will receive a $20 check the night of the parade to help in the construction costs.

"This is in addition to any cash prizes the floats might win," Mr. Burns said. Four prizes — $75, $50, $25 and $15 — are being offered to Union City floats. Out-of-town floats will be judged for two prizes, $50 and $25. Commercial floats will be accepted but will not compete for prizes.

The deadline for entering floats has been set for Monday, Nov. 22, and those desiring to enter a float are urged to call Dr. Charles Denaburg, 885-0541, immediately.

The parade will be held Thursday, Dec. 2, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Several bands, at least three drill teams and other units will be featured, along with the appearance of Miss Tennessee, Miss Marcia Murray of Paris.

Stocking Stuffers

If filling the stockings hung by the chimney with care is your happy task, here's a thought for an extra stocking stuffer. Add one or two delicately colored, pastel packs of Kleenex tissues to the girls' stockings and give pocket packs to the men in your family.

DAY OF DEDICATION AND PRAYER FOR THOSE RISKING THEIR LIVES FOR PEACE IN VIET-NAM

By the President of the United States of America a Proclamation:

WHEREAS, in assisting the people of South Viet Nam to resist unprovoked aggression, the United States and other nations are carrying on the honored tradition of defending a people's right to freedom; and

WHEREAS the purpose of the United States in Viet Nam is to help to open the way for social justice in place of unprovoked aggression and peace instead of war; and

WHEREAS there can be no social justice or economic progress without security from external attack and from terror in the night; and

WHEREAS the Government of the United States remains ready without condition for the international discussions that can lead to lasting peace; and

WHEREAS it is the sense of the Congress in S. Res. 159 and H. Res. 626 that it would be fitting for the President to set aside a national day of remembrance dedicated to those Americans who are committing their lives, blood and energies in the defense of world peace.

Now, THEREFORE, I, LYNDON B. JOHNSON, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate Sunday, November 28, 1965, as a day of dedication and prayer, honoring the men and women of South Viet Nam, of the United States, and of all other countries, who are risking their lives to bring about a just peace in South Viet Nam.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this sixth day of November in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and sixty-five, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and ninetyeth.

Gives Your Kitchen A New Look!

Within this year, more than five million American home owners will complete major remodeling projects to make their homes more spacious, more comfortable, more convenient, and attractive.

Most families who invest in remodeling projects find that they have the opportunity to enjoy the results of everyday living, and then when the time comes to sell their homes, they get the investment back through the homes' increased market value. Although some of these remodeling projects will involve quite large sums of money and extensive rebuilding, a great many need not be at all expensive.

Take your kitchen, for instance. Giving your kitchen a "new face" can be easier and less expensive than you think. To give your entire kitchen a bright, new modern look without extensive remodeling, you can replace your old 48-inch

Smallest Gifts Hardest to Pick

Choosing the "little something" Christmas gift for all those you'd like to remember is sometimes more time-consuming than making major gift purchases.

There's the janitor, the newspaper boy, the librarian, the youngsters' teachers — just to start the list.

Ideally, you want such gifts to have the air of Christmas, to be inexpensive and not too personal. Kleenex tissues meet the need — Christmas tissues, white with bright red and green boughs, for teacher, librarian and the neighbor who gave you a favorite recipe, and man-size tissues for the postman, the newspaper boy and the janitor.

Cushion Cookies for Mailing

Do you plan to send home-made Christmas cookies to special people? To be sure they arrive safe and fresh, place two cookies back to back and wrap in a Kleenex Christmas tissue before packing. Snowy white tissues imprinted with delicate red and green boughs, cushion cookies and keep the holiday treats intact for the lucky person who receives them.

Doctor in the Kitchen

by W.W. Bauer, M.D.
Consultant, National Dairy Council

ARE TEEN-AGE SNACKS A PROBLEM???

"And while we're here, doctor," the mother of the teenage girl said, "I wish you would tell her how to eat right. All that stuff she eats — hamburgers, hot dogs, popcorn, milk shakes —"

The lady got the surprise of her life.

The doctor pointed out to her that he realized that teenage diets leave much to be desired, in which they differ not a whit from adult diets. But they aren't as bad as they are sometimes painted, at least in some respects.

Hamburgers and hot dogs supply useful proteins, since they are made of meat. Many girls do not eat enough meat, and are likely to be short on proteins. Milk shakes supply much needed calcium, readily digestible sugar, good quality protein, a fine supply of B vitamins, calcium, and other useful minerals, especially phosphorus. Looked at from that angle, a milk shake can contribute significantly to the diet. And let's not overlook the popcorn, which is a nice way to get chummy with some whole-grain cereal, nicely buttered.

Best Snacks Not Enough

Of course the girl, or boy, should not expect to live exclusively on these delectable delights. There is much more required for a good nutritious diet for a teenager or anybody else. The big difference is that the teenager, still in the growth-and-development stage, needs these nutrients more than does the fully grown adult.

A good diet for teenagers, or anybody except sick people living on medically prescribed diets, is very simply outlined. It falls into four main categories: First, there is the meat group — meats, fish, sea-food, poultry, eggs, milk, cheese and the leguminous vegetables (navy beans, soy beans, dried split peas, lima beans and lentils).

Next comes the dairy food group — milk and its products, including ice cream, ice milk, sherbets, cream and whipped cream, cheese and low-fat milk in various forms.

Then there is the fruit-vegetable group, which, as its name implies, includes all the fruits and vegetables with their content of sugars, starches, vitamins, minerals and supplementary proteins.

Finally we come to the group of enriched white-flour bakery products, refined white enriched cereals, or whole-wheat cereals and bakery goods, which supply, in addition to their starch and sugars, important vitamins and minerals and supplementary proteins.

Recommended Servings

Two or more servings daily are recommended for the meat group. Four or more servings of the vegetables and fruits and breads and cereal groups. Adults should have 3 or more glasses of milk daily. Children 3 or more; teenagers 4 or more (smaller glasses for some children under nine); pregnant and nursing women 4 glasses or more.

For teenagers? Yes, and for you, too, homemaker, and your whole family.

Thanksgiving Ushers In The Eating Season

The eating season is upon us, with Thanksgiving behind us and Christmas just a few weeks off.

If you want to go "all out" (which means spending quite a bit of time in the kitchen) here is a suggested menu and the recipes to prepare it:

Tomato Juice Cocktail
Turkey and Dressing
Cranberry Conserve
Broccoli with Shrimp Sauce
Congealed Vegetable Salad
Orange-date Muffins
Meringue tarts filled with orange and lemon ice flavored with rum and topped with whipped cream
Coffee

Tomato Juice Cocktail (Serves 4)

Combine in a jar, shake well and chill: 3½ cups tomato juice, ¼ teaspoon grated onion, 1 teaspoon grated celery, ¼ teaspoon horseradish, 1½ teaspoons lemon juice, dash of Worcestershire or Tabasco Sauce, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon sugar.

This cocktail is good served hot or chilled. Curry powder, a stick of cinnamon, tarragon, parsley or some other herb may be steeped in the cocktail and strained out before it is served.

Turkey and Dressing

This recipe comes from the Shelby Woman's Club cookbook, and it's originator is unknown.

Select a 10 or 12-pound turkey. Thoroughly clean. Rub with salt inside and out. Cook cornbread for dressing in quantity desired and by a recipe the user likes. Cut stale light bread into cubes. The proportion of cornbread and light bread is determined by the taste of the cook — sometimes half and half, but usually a greater proportion of cornbread.

Prepare celery and bell pepper for use by washing, removing stem and seed from pepper and strings from celery, and then chopping. Use either 2 or 3 peppers with equal amount of celery. Amount depends on quantity of dressing desired.

Add celery and pepper to bread mixture. Add liquid made of cream of chicken soup diluted as if preparing soup. (Use two cans of soup, at least.)

Break two or three eggs into mixture. Add salt and pepper to taste. Stir and mix thoroughly. Add sage. Start with 1 teaspoon and add until sage can be smelled slightly when a spoonful of mixture is held beneath the nose.

The dressing mixture should always fall apart when spooned up. If gummy, add a bit more cornbread.

Place two large pieces of aluminum foil in heavy roaster, allowing enough to cover turkey completely. Place dressing in foil, and turkey on top of the dressing.

Cover roaster with lid. Start cooking bird, at least 250 degrees, and continue to cook in slow oven until done. Cook by smell and taste. If a noon meal of turkey is planned, better start the cooking by 6 a.m.

Boil leaves of celery with chicken giblets for gravy. When meat is done, take out bones, liver and celery leaves. Thickened to consistency liked for gravy, add salt and pepper to taste.

Use no eggs in gravy. Use no onions anywhere.

Cranberry Conserve

Grind 1 quart cranberries. After removing the seeds, grind and add (skin and all) 1 orange. Stir in 2 cups of sugar. Place conserve in a covered jar in the refrigerator. Permit to sit and chill two days before using.

Broccoli with Shrimp Sauce From "Proof of the Pudding"

Cook 2 packages of frozen broccoli according to directions. Drain.

Serve with sauce made from 1 can of frozen cream of shrimp soup, ¼ cup milk and ¼ cup chive cream cheese.

Heat soup slowly, with milk, stirring until melted. Add cream cheese and 2 teaspoons of lemon juice, then pour over cooked broccoli.

—Mrs. John Flautt
Congealed Vegetable Salad
1 cup cabbage
2-3 (two-thirds) cup carrots
1 green pepper
1 pimiento pepper
1 small onion
1 cup celery
2 tablespoons gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 package of lemon jello
2 cups boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
2½ tablespoons vinegar
2 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup mayonnaise

Run vegetables through food chopper and then measure. Mix vegetables. Mix gelatin in cold water and dissolve over steam; add vinegar, sugar, salt, mayonnaise and melted gelatin to vegetables. Dissolve Jello in boiling water and pour small amount in mold and let congeal. Add rest of Jello to vegetables, mix and pour in mold and chill until firm.

—Mrs. Cliff Stone

Orange-Date Muffins
2 cups sifted enriched self-rising flour
3 tablespoons sugar
¼ cup chopped dates

1 teaspoon grated orange rind
1 egg, beaten
1 cup milk
3 tablespoons melted shortening or oil
Grease medium-sized muffin pan. Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Into medium-size mixing bowl combine flour and sugar. Stir in dates and orange rind. Blend together egg, milk and shortening or oil. Add liquid all at once to flour mixture, stirring only until flour is moistened. Fill muffin cups ¾ full. Bake 20 to 25 minutes, or until golden brown.

Lemon and Orange Ice
Grate 2 teaspoons orange rind onto 2 cups sugar. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Then add 4 cups water and ¼ teaspoon salt and boil for 5 minutes. Cool the syrup, and add to it 2 cups orange juice and ¼ cup lemon juice. Chill in refrigerator trays or ice cream freezer.

Before serving, pour a teaspoonful of rum over each serving, then top with whipped cream.

There are more than 250 kinds of cotton cloth and more than a thousand different finishes.

Unique Gift Wraps Add Special Warmth

Here's a new idea when it's time to wrap the presents for display under the tree. Adhesive covering and a pair of scissors are all you need for unique package wrappings.

All you have to do is cut Marvalon adhesive covering to fit the gift box, peel off the backing, and press the covering against the box. If the box has an unusual shape, simply cut a piece of Marvalon to fit each surface. Cover tops and bottoms of boxes separately, and the box itself becomes another gift — a storage place for jewelry, sweaters, gloves, hat or shoes, depending on its size.

Once covered, decorate the package. Use Marvalon strips of a different color to "tie" it. For the holiday look, cut out bells, Santas, wreaths, holly, stars, angels, snowflakes, or other symbols of the season and press them to the gift package.

For personalized presents, cut letters to spell out a name on the box. Wrap packages this way for mailing, and they'll arrive as pretty as when they were shipped, with no tears to crush or paper to wrinkle.

Adhesive covering comes in bright colors and patterns of Christmas reds and greens, winter blues and white, and many other festive hues for holiday gifts.

200 New Stations Can Supply Power

NEW YORK — An electrical manufacturer estimates that 200 generating systems can meet the quadrupled power needs of the United States in the year 2000. Although more than 1,000 stations now power the nation, new generating plants of 10-million-kilowatts capacity each will provide the extra electricity demanded in the next 25 years.

Entertain With Ease

Graceful, sophisticated and quietly elegant, condominium apartment homes rise above the city's hustle and bustle in towers of glistening glass and solid steel.

Entertaining in an apartment home can sometimes be a problem - especially if there is a minimum amount of counter space on which to put the dishes after dinner. The first high-rise condominium apartment building in Chicago, called simply 339 Barry, solved this problem by installing smart, new KitchenAid automatic dishwashers.

With an automatic dishwasher, the hostess can quickly remove the soiled dishes from the dinner table and load them immediately into the dishwasher. There's no need to hand rinse either! Then, while she's enjoying the remainder of the evening with her guests and family, the dishwasher does all the work of washing and drying.

Take a tip from condominium apartment owners and make entertaining a pleasure instead of a chore. There's more time for living with a KitchenAid dishwasher.
